

I International Interdisciplinary Technical Conference of Young Scientists “InterTech2008”

InterTech2008 Organizing Committee
ul. Kórnicka 5, 60-965 Poznań, Poland
tel. +48 61 665 2698
e-mail: conference@intertech.put.poznan.pl

Poznan, 06.12.2007r.

Dear PHD Students and Young Researchers, Dear Colleagues,

We would like to inform you with pleasure that the PHD Students of Poznan University of Technology with cooperation with the PHD Students' authorities is organizing the First International Interdisciplinary Technical Conference of Young Scientists “InterTech2008” on 17th and 18th April 2008. The conference will take place under the Honorary Patronage of Rector of Poznan University of Technology, prof. Adam Hamrol.

The goal of the conference is to present young scientists' latest research topics, results and various problems - not necessarily connected to work. We think that this will be the most comprehensive conference for young scientists in technical areas including various aspects of PhD students' life. We hope the conference will be an opportunity to find new contacts, share experiences and inspire future actions. The best papers from each module will be published and awarded (in some cases another review stage will be required).

Please find the enclosed Call for Papers and detailed information about the Poznan city. If you would like to find further detailed information, please visit our web-site:

www.intertech.put.poznan.pl

We would be grateful if we could ask you to circulate and disseminate the information about our conference in your scientific community, so as many as possible interested young researchers could attend this event.

We thank you for your effort in advance.

Sincerely yours
Piotr Rydlichowski
Conference Chairman